G.O.P. PLEDGFS CONSTRUCTIVE LAW PROGRAM

Martin Declares Party Must "Clean Up" After 14-Year New Deal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 6—Re[illegible]n leaders promised today [illegible] back a "constructive" [illegible] a new congress which [illegible] Martin (Mass) told them [illegible] have the job of "cleaning [illegible] 14 years of the New Deal.

[illegible] who will be the next speaker of the house, declared at [illegible] national committee banquet [illegible] was up to the party to [illegible] the country from the ravages [illegible] 14 years of New Deal [illegible] policies and secret government."

[illegible] committeemen turned [illegible] to discussions of a site [illegible] next presidential convention and the raising of campaign [illegible] agreed the top legislative [illegible] in the 80th congress [illegible] weigh heavily in the 1948 race for the White House.

Rejects Democratic President

[illegible] regretted last night that [illegible] not control the executive [illegible] and because of this we [illegible] not be able to accomplish [illegible] hope to do" But committee members told newsmen the [illegible] still must take the lead on [illegible] Hill.

[illegible] Ross Todd, committeeman from Kentucky, said he hopes the Republicans will offer [illegible] delay labor legislation [illegible] and to prevent critical work [illegible] pages such as the coal strike.

Chairman Carroll Reece told [illegible] committee yesterday it should [illegible] a 1948 convention city [illegible] it delay, predicting that [illegible] conditions for delegates [illegible] rooters' may well be as [illegible] as now.

Schedule Negotiations

As a result a seven-member committee, with Reece as ex-officio chairman, scheduled a meeting today to begin negotiations [illegible] interested cities.

At the same time, the finance committee met to discuss which sources to tap for a $900,000 budget to keep Republican headquarters rolling full steam in the non-election year of 1947.

Talk of presidential candidates [illegible] committee members [illegible] they were not attending the [illegible] sessions which gave Reece a clear track for two more years [illegible] administration.

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota was the only candidate present in person But [illegible] was strong talk among the delegates of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Senator-[illegible] John W Bricker of Ohio, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and others.

Clarence Buddington Kelland, [illegible] committeeman from Arizona, apparently summed up the reaction of most of the visiting [illegible].

"The situation is so confused [illegible] as the presidential nomination is concerned that nobody knows what is going to happen," Kelland told a reporter.

"I don't think you are going to see the matter jell at all until Ohio decides whether it is backing Taft or Bricker. When that [illegible] is made, the lineup will [illegible] fast."

Climbing Mercury Eases Ohio Coal Shortage Inconvenience

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Dec 6—With temperatures well above the freezing mark in most of Ohio, reports of immediate hardship from the coal shortage lessened today.

It was predicted, however, unemployment and drastic conservation measures if the mine strike continued.

Maximum temperatures in most of the state yesterday were in the 50's and here in the state capital where the range was from 34 to 55 degrees. Ted W Brown, secretary of the Columbus Retail Coal Merchants association, said he did not receive a call for fuel.

No additional schools were reported closed and no major industrial lay-offs occurred. The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co, which Wednesday announced sharp cutbacks in plants employing 17,000 changed its plans and said it would operate for another week or 10 days at current levels The company has a window glass plant at Mt. Vernon, O.

Hamilton Gets Coal

Hamilton, O, after blacking out street lights Wednesday night, received a supply of coal from the Champion Paper and Fiber Co which enabled residential streets to be lighted fully last night. An Ohio State Guard unit which aided police in patroling the city during the blackout was released from duty.

Railroad workers, already hard-hit by lay-offs due to the shutdown of soft coal mines, were in for further employment cuts at the start of next week.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad announced that 2,421 employes would be laid off Monday in addition to 4,700 idled Dec 1. Most of the new lay-offs will be at Huntington, W. Va, and Russell, Ky, among shopmen.

Trains Discontinued

The railroad also announced discontinuance of some 20 trains at midnight Dec 8, including Nos 30-37 from Columbus to Athens, O, Nos 130-137 between Logan and Pomeroy No 17 from Cincinnati to Hammond, Ind No 43 from Phoebus, Va, to Cincinnati, and No 146 from Ashland, Ky, to Cincinnati.

The Ohio Central division of the New York Central railroad reported that 100 of its employes at Bucyrus, O, would be laid off Monday, and the Louisville and Nashville Railroad expected to increase its lay-offs in the Cincinnati-Covington, Ky, area to 550 by that time The Pennsylvania Railroad said 260 shopmen here would be laid off, but that no reduction of yard and road trainmen would be made immediately.

Zanesville Strike Ends

At Zanesville a seven-week-old strike affecting 1,100 mosaic tile employes was ended last night with ratification of a new contract by members of the CIO Glass, Ceramic and Silica Sand Workers union, but only a few of the workers will be able to return to their jobs because of the coal shortage and freight embargo.

M C McVann, district president of the union, said the new two-year contract provided five-cent hourly pay increase and a bonus system and contained a non-strike clause.

The Owens Corning Fiberglas Co plant at Newark announced a partial shutdown today because of the rail embargo, and the Pharis Tire and Rubber Co there reported dwindling coal supplies might cause the lay-off of 1,300 workers soon.

In Bucyrus the W. A. Riddell corporation, one of the city's largest manufacturers, curtailed production 50 per cent because of the embargo.

PLANTS ACT TO MEET EMBARGO

Four Close Today, Others Go on Day to Day Basis of Operations.

Marion industries struggled to operate under the effects of the rail embargo today which at midnight last night clamped restrictions on rail freight and express shipments, limiting them to commodities and supplies necessary to the maintenance of public health and safety.

Some of the major industries were setting up trucking service in an effort to get supplies in and manufactured products from their plants Others announced that the embargo would find them operating on a day-to-day basis by next week.

Employes of the Osgood Co, the Alloy Cast Steel Co, General Excavator Co and Commercial Steel Casting Co will work their final shifts tonight A shut-down in the four plants will result in the lay-off of approximately 800 employes, with 100 more in the maintenance, receiving and plant operating departments to be laid off within the next few days as soon as the plants are put in standby condition. Announcement of the lay-off order was made yesterday by M C McNeil president of the Osgood Co and its affiliated industrial concerns.

Cooler Posts Notice

The Universal Cooler division of the International Detrola Corp has posted a notice to its employes stating the division would "continue to operate as long as we can under the present handicaps."

The executive committee of the division is meeting daily to keep abreast with current developments Officials reported arrangements had been made to provide trucking service for materials coming in and products going from the plant. Many of the division's customers have offered to bring in materials from its suppliers and carry out finished products to their plants which depend on products made at the

Dealers Report Coal Situation Here Unchanged

Reports from Marion coal dealers today were the same as they have been all week—no coal.

Charles Buente, president of the Marion coal dealers association, said local coal dealers are doing everything possible to provide coal for those customers who have less than a 10-day supply, but emergency coal supplies cannot be obtained without written certification from the consumer that his supply of coal is less than 10 days Mr Buente said local coal dealers had received some written certificates asking for coal, but he predicted there would be no influx of orders until temperatures dropped. It is believed that many now out of coal are using gas for heating purposes while the mild weather continues.

Local officials said they had received no promise that coal would be available for schools in the near future Father William J. Spickerman head of St. Mary school, reported today there were no changes in plans to close St. Mary school next Friday When the school can be reopened will depend on when coal supplies are available, Father Spickerman said E E Holt, superintendent of Marion schools, has stated city schools have sufficient coal to last until the Christmas holidays.

Officers of the Eagles lodge, whose building houses the city offices reported today they had closed off the entire third floor of their building at 291 West Center street in an effort to conserve coal. The third floor contains recreation and club rooms. Social activities of the lodge will be held on the second floor. Lodge officers estimated about five tons of coal a week could be saved by not heating the third floor. Eagles officials said they had only enough coal to last until next Tuesday.

County commissioners report they have sufficient coal to run the county institutions, including the county home, the children's home and the detention home for another month. Coal supplies for the court house are adequate for the present, they said.

WHO PAYS WHOM. While their union was being fined $3,500,000 and UMW President John L. Lewis $10,000 in federal court, these miners lined up in Logan, W. Va, to apply for jobless benefits although West Virginia denies such compensation in a labor dispute (Associated Press Wirephoto)

JUDGE TAKES "UNUSUAL" STEP TO SPEED APPEAL

Allows Lewis Trial Records To Go To Higher Court.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 6—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough today took what was described as an "unusual" step to speed up the court appeal of John L Lewis and his United Mine Workers from a contempt of court conviction.

The jurist, who fined the UMW chief and the union for contempt, signed an order permitting the original record of the contempt proceedings to be used in laying the case before the next higher tribunal—the circuit court of appeals. Lewis and the UMW filed notice of an appeal yesterday.

Transfer of the original record was described at the district court clerk's office as "unusual." Copies of the record ordinarily are transmitted to the appellate court.

At the time of Goldsborough's order, there was no public record at the clerk's office that Lewis and the union had posted bond for their fines of $10,000 and $3,500,000, respectively.

MANUFACTURERS SET LABOR POLICY PLANS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—The National Association of Manufacturers outlined today its proposals for changes in the national labor laws and heard the head of the American Legion assail "crackpots who are working to get the individual something for nothing."

Paul H Griffith, national commander of the Legion, in a speech prepared for delivery at the morning session of the final day of NAM's congress of American industry, said the "impractical idealists, the do-gooders and all the other crackpots" were either "the willing or unwitting tools" of Communists.

Proposals of a new national labor policy, as drafted for submission to the NAM delegates, took shape in overnight conferences.

NAM was reported as prepared to renew its opposition to compulsory arbitration, to unionization of foremen, to mass picketing, to compulsory membership in a union, to jurisdictional or sympathy strikes, to strikes against the government, to government intervention in labor disputes beyond making impartial conciliation available.

Earl Bunting, president of O'Sullivan Rubber Corp. of Winchester, Va., prepared to take over the NAM presidency from Robert R. Wason, president of Manning, Maxwell and Moore, Inc., of New York. Bunting was elected by the new board of directors yesterday.

Truman Gives 7 Army Honors

Former Ohio Sergeant First To Receive That Many at One Time.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—President Truman today presented seven army decorations to Llewellyn M Chilson of Berwyn and Malvern, Pa, a former technical sergeant who was inducted at Akron, Ohio.

The war department said it was the first time within knowledge of its officials that "one man has received so may decorations at one time, and also one of the few times a president of the United States has presented a combat decoration other than a Medal of Honor."

The decorations were the Distinguished Service Cross, and two oak clusters, the Silver Star and one oak leaf cluster; the Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star.

Chilson already had the Purple Heart with one cluster, the Distinguished Unit Citation badge and the Combat Infantryman's badge.

The acts of heroism occurred in the French Vosges; on the Rhine river; at Gernsheim-Horsental; at Obernau; at Zell, and at Neuberg.

Chilson's father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Chilson, reside in Akron.

Chilson served with the 45th division, in the 179th Infantry regiment. He was in North Africa and Europe two years.

Wounded at Anzio, he quickly was back in action and "found the clear flame of courage," the war department said, "that was to burn long and bright and set him apart from even the outstanding troops of the 45th."

He was wounded again in [illegible] Neuberg action, [illegible] to England, returned to this country, [illegible]

NEWARK GIRL'S DEATH PROBED

"Complications" Seen in Autopsy on Ohio University Vet's Wife.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O Dec 6—Prosecutor Gordon D Gray said today an autopsy in the death of Leah Mae Peters, 21, wife of Ohio university student-veteran Jewell Peters, 25, might take a week because of its "complicated nature."

Gray declined to amplify his remarks or say whether poison actually caused Mrs Peters' death as first reported by Police Chief J. B. Grogan.

The body was discovered last Wednesday partly sprawled across a bed on which Peters lay seriously ill in their trailer camp home near the Athens county fairgrounds.

Dead Six Hours

Coroner John H Ellis estimated Mrs Peters had been dead about six hours and Grogan first said the couple appeared to have drunk lye.

Authorities said they had not learned much from Peters because he appeared 'confused' during several questionings.

Peters, a straight 'A' student who spent five years in military service, gave this account of the mystery to the Athens Messenger:

"After Leah returned from visiting a neighbor, we retired about 11 p m. Tuesday night.

Awoke Violently Ill

"I awoke violently ill and got up, then lay on the floor and asked Leah to get a doctor.

"She was too frightened to leave me and I must have blacked out. The next thing I remember was someone knocking on the door."

Clarence Hill, another student, forced his way into the Peters' trailer when he sought to deliver their mail and received no response although lights were burning inside.

Peters was taken to Sheltering Arms hospital. He said he expected to be discharged tomorrow. His home is in Morgantown, W. Va.

Mrs. Peters' body was returned to her former home in Newark where funeral services will be conducted tomorrow in St Francis DeSales Catholic church.

New Embargo Sends Jobless Total Upward

Unemployment Snowballs as Strike Goes On; 5 Million Seen Jan. 1.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec 6 — An embargo on railroad freight shipments today climaxed the snowballing effects of the soft coal strike with an avalanche of new unemployment that sent the idleness total above 213,000 in related industries.

Tens of thousands of American workers were handed pre-Christmas layoffs as the 16-day stoppage gradually choked off the economic social and educational life of the nation.

Predictions from across the country indicated more than 5,000,000 workers would be idle by New Year's if the coal strike is still in progress.

Meanwhile the government planned more stringent conservation measures to save the meager coal supply including an extension of the drastic brown-outs now observed in 21 eastern states.

John D Small, civilian production chief, glumly predicted, "We will have people cold within a week" because of the strike.

The miners, generally, were restive but apparently content to watch and wait for word from John L Lewis However, in Durango, Colo 40 AFL-United Mine Workers at six small coal mines in the area reported back to work yesterday.

"We need Christmas money," was the terse comment of the returned miners who included Frank Martinez, president of the local.

Ford Motor Co, beginning layoffs that may spread to 500,000 automobile workers within a week or 10 days, idled 20,000 employes at midnight last night and said 20,000 more would be released tonight because of the coal shortage.

A Ford spokesman said all 90,000 Ford workers would be out of work within two weeks.

The Budd Co laid off 14,000 employes in its Philadelphia and Detroit plants today because of the freight embargo The company, which makes automobile bodies, has a total personnel of 21,000.

Railroads again drastically slashed payrolls with 5,000 workers furloughed in Kentucky alone. Chesapeake and Ohio railroad said it would lay off an additional 2,241 men Monday, bringing the line's total idle to 7,121.

New York Central which has more than 3,500 workers already idle, said it will begin to lay off employes "in the thousands," beginning next week.

"NO TURNING BACK," CABINET MEMBER SAYS

Union Posts Bond as Truman Aides Advise on Line To Take in Speech.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 6 — An hour-long presidential cabinet meeting on the coal crisis broke up today with one member declaring privately:

"There will be no turning back in this fight."

This sentiment was voiced as CIO President Philip Murray called on all organized labor to join the battle against government efforts to end the miners walkout by injunction.

President Truman presumably obtained his cabinet's views on the approach he should take in his Sunday night broadcast to the nation After the cabinet meeting, the President also saw Rep. Randolph, Democrat from a coal region of West Virginia.

Post Bond on Fine

With organized labor marshaling reinforcements for John L Lewis battle through the high courts the United Mine Workers posted bond to cover the $3,510,000 fines imposed on them for ignoring a court order against striking.

The union put up U S government bonds with a face value of $3,500,000 and Lewis posted a $10,000 cash bond to meet his personal fine Both cash and bonds were sent to a U. S. treasury vault for safekeeping.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters, as the weekly cabinet meeting convened, that Mr Truman was consulting with administration officials on the broadcast.

Actual writing of the speech, Ross said, has not yet begun.

CIO President Philip Murray formally invited the rival AFL and the independent railway brotherhoods to join the CIO in "unified action" to combat what he called a "deliberate and monstrous movement" to cripple labor.

"Campaign of Hysteria"

In a letter directed to AFL President William Green and to leaders of the railway worker, the CIO chief declared the federal court injunction against John L. Lewis and the "vengeful fine" of $3,510,000 upon the mine workers is the first step in a campaign of "hysteria", against labor.

In addition to Green, the letter went to President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Chairman T. C Cashen of the Railway Labor Executives' association.

At the White House, Ross told reporters there was no comment on Green's suggestion of yesterday that the government "make a new approach" to the situation by calling an operator-UMW conference. He said the suggestion had not come to the White House in an official way.

Urges Common Strategy

In today's letter, Murray urged that the leaders of AFL, CIO and the railway labor executives association meet "as quickly as possible" to devise a common program of economic and legislative measures.

In a series of denunciatory statements, union leaders of all camps turned pressure on the Truman administration to back away from pressing the legal action which has brought fines of $3,500,000 on the United Mine Workers and $10,000 on John L. Lewis, the miners' adamant chieftain.

Old enmities were put aside in the common cause of supporting Lewis' stand that U. S. District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough had no lawful right to order the miners' work stoppage ended. It was Lewis' disregard for the order which brought him the fine for contempt.

CIO Supports Lewis

CIO President Philip Murray, breaking off a long-time bitter feud with Lewis, announced he would join the UMW in appealing Goldsborough's rulings to the supreme court.

AFL President William Green called the government's course "supporting the rule of the jungle."

Railway labor executives, through their association, already had spoken out similarly.

CHARLES P. TAFT

CHARLES P. TAFT TO HEAD CHURCH GROUP

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6—Cincinnati Attorney Charles P. Taft today was enroute to Seattle to take office as the first layman president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Election of the son of the late William Howard Taft, former president of the United States, and brother of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft was announced yesterday at the council's biennial assembly being held in Seattle.

Taft, member of the national council of the Episcopal church and chairman of the organization working for the establishment of a world council of churches, succeeds Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of the Methodist church.

Bishop John S. Stamm of the Evangelical United Brethren church of Harrisburg, Pa. was named vice president of the council.

In a statement Taft said he was "overwhelmed" by this great honor."

He declared he welcomed "this important significant departure from precedent, in electing a layman as president of the federal council, as a recognition in no sense personal of the obvious fact that the men and women of the congregations, the blessed company of all faithful people, make the Christian church."

Taft was a charter member of city council from 1938 to 1942, when he resigned to give his time to war work.

DEPOT SELLS GOODS VALUED AT $400,000

Public Institutions Get Chance at Surplus Today.

Nearly $400,000 worth of surplus commodities have been sold at the war assets administration sale now being conducted at the Marion Engineer Depot, depot officials reported today. The sale has been in progress since Nov. 25.

Today eligible non-profit institutions, including hospital and welfare organizations were purchasing materials at the sale. During yesterday's sale, reserved for state and local governments, approximately 100 persons visited Warehouse No. 2 where the material is on display.

Beginning Monday, the sale will be open to non-priority buyers, including wholesalers, retailers, jobbers and the general public.

In the three-day period ending Dec. 2, during which veterans were able to exercise priority rights, approximately $172,000 worth of surplus merchandise was bought by former servicemen who are now establishing themselves in peacetime occupations. Among the most popular items selected by veterans were tool kits, machinery, electrical fixtures, paint brushes, rayon yarn, tool boxes, lubricants and solvents. Minefield marking sets also were in demand for their component parts and cases, official said.

Bilbo Unworried Over New Senate Inquiry

By The Associated Press

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 4—Mississippi's uninhibited Senator Theo G. Bilbo, confident that "everything is lovely—righteousness will prevail," prepared today to leave for Washington and a second bout of senate committee investigation.

"The man's" new engagement is with another committee investigating his alleged relations with war contractors. Bilbo said he would be there when the hearings opened Dec. 12, and expected "fine sailing."

Taking the stand in his own behalf before the committee yesterday, Bilbo testified in an approximation of his stump-speaking manner. A crowd that packed the federal courtroom broke into frequent laughter despite the pounding and shouting of attendants.

The senator said that when he recommended visiting Negroes the night before an election, he was not suggesting intimidation, but merely that they should be reasoned with to avoid trouble.

He never counselled violence against Negroes, he said.

Thousands Visit New Store Of Gallaher Co. at Opening

Numerous Departments Expertly Arranged in Spacious, Completely Modern, L-Shaped Location.

Several thousand Marionites who crowded the new Gallaher Drug Co. store on West Center and South Main streets on its opening day Thursday saw a spacious store completely modern in all its details.

The new store, in a one-story L-shaped building, covers 7,538 spare feet and carries all the lines of merchandise handled by modern drug stores, which resemble department stores, as well as other merchandise not usually sold in drug stores.

At the right of the South Main street entrance is a glass enclosure which contains popcorn and doughnut machines. Directly opposite the entrance is a costume jewelry counter, and to the left is the book and greeting card department. Beyond the doughnut and popcorn enclosure a lunch counter and soda fountain runs almost the entire east-west length of the store.

Dining Accommodations

Dining booths are arranged down the center of the aisle. Also running down the center of the east-west aisle is a counter containing household gadgets, from string to cutlery to thermometers. The toy department is also located here. The left side west of the book department contains prepared medicines. Beyond the soda fountain, at the intersection of the north-south portion of the L-shaped store, is the wine department.

Recessed at the angle of the L is the drug department, which employs four licensed pharmacists. Also there is a circular cushioned seat for customers. To the observer facing West Center street from that point, the toilet articles counter runs the length of the left side of the store. On the right are stationery, watches, fountain pens, cameras, tobacco and other types of merchandise. Arranged on counters down the center are baby and household supplies and candy.

Clear Views from Streets

The entrances of the store present striking views from the street, being composed of glass running almost the entire width and height of the building. The doors are also of glass. Either wing of the brightly lighted building may be observed from the street.

Arranged on the walls are photographs of Marion industrial and civic activities, approximately two by four feet in size. The floor is composed of terazzo and the ceiling of acoustical tile. Lighting is fluorescent.

Assisting 87 local employes of Gallaher's in handling the crowds on opening day were 31 executives of the company from the home office in Dayton, including J. F. Gallaher, president of the company.

Coast-To-Coast Flying Time Of One Hour Foreseen by German

...e supersonic speed will ...ed only in the strato... Lippisch asserted, flights ... acticable only for dis... ...,000 miles or more.

Better Take Your Car"

...orter distances "you bet... ...your car," he advised ... ...cal speed, Lippisch said.

What form the supersonic plane will take is a matter of dissension, even among the Germans. Lippisch declares the flying wing design is the answer, but Dr. Rudolf Hermann, another of Germany's top aerodynamacists, holds for the trapezoid wing, which he says reduces variations in pressure to about one-tenth of what they are in the flying wing principle.

Hermann declared the true forerunners of tomorrow's supersonic planes already had been built by Germany in the summer of 1944.

Lippisch, to bolster his argument for the flying wing, pointed to the Delta-6. This all-wing plane, capable of whistling along at 650 miles an hour, was developed at Vienna but the Russians arrived before it could reach the production lines.

Space Ships Now Possible

Hermann said that although space ships and ocean-spanning rockets were only dreams during World War II, they are entirely possible.

"We were five years of peace-time development away from completion of an actual ocean-crossing rocket," he said, but added that German scientists had produced a sucessor to V-2, which they called A-9. In effect a winged V-2.

"The V-2 had a range of 190 miles," he said, but the A-9 could reach 350 miles, although at a somewhat slower rate of speed."

One number away, A-10, was the rocket designed to cross the Atlantic. A-10, Hermann said, never reached the drafting boards, but all energy computations had been made.

Would Weigh 100 Tons

It would have weighed 100 tons and would have operated with a 200-ton thrust. V-2 delivered a thrust of 25 tons.

The Germans never took talk of an interplanetary missile too seriously, Hermann continued, but he said such a rocket was entirely possible. It would have to be built with a three-stage ejection system to overcome gravitational pull.

Col. P. F. Helmick, in charge of the technical work of the German scientists, said they led the world in war-time development of infra-red rays, supersonic wind tunnels, high-speed plane designs and jet and rocket propulsion engines.

"We had no propulsion systems comparable to the German's for guided missiles," Helmick said.

Japs Did Original Research

Contrary to general belief, the colonel added, the Japanese also did considerable original research and were highly successful in studies involving air flow, synthetic fuel and metallurgy.

"Scientific collaboration between Japan and Germany was extensive until the late stages of the war," Helmick said. "Then, mutual distrust and a breakdown of communications put an end to it."

One of the big reasons German researchers were able to lead the world in some phases of aerial development, Helmick said, was that "they had unlimited funds."

Although the Germans to whom newsmen talked were smiling, cooperative and most modest, Col. R. H. Curtis, chief administrative officer, declared that many of them "feel quite superior to our own scientists."

However, Helmick said, although German help will save the United States two to 10 years of experimentation, the Germans' work will be correlated with the discoveries of U. S. scientists "to achieve the best results."

The Miners' Stake

JUDGE T ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH'S imposition of a $3,500,000 fine on the United Mine Workers for the first 14 days of their latest strike gives the miners a heavy financial stake in a speedy return to work.

Each additional day they stay away, they must now assume, will mean a further loss of their union's resources. Judge Goldsborough has put the decision in their laps. They are no longer risking the welfare of the United States at no direct risk to themselves. If they choose, they can risk the bankruptcy of their union.

Their president, John L. Lewis, fined $10,000 for his personal part in the strike to date, also must consider the certainty of further fines if he continues in contempt of court. Mr. Lewis and his union both have a powerful financial incentive to get themselves out of the legal jam his headstrong decision to defy the government has created.

The alternative is to destroy their union financially while destroying the economic stability of the United States. They have made great progress so far in both directions. The argument by United Mine Workers counsel in Wednesday's court proceedings, that nothing in the record showed loss sufficient to justify a $3,500,000 fine, does not mean that there has not been economic loss sufficient to justify an even larger fine. If the government is forced to recommend an additional fine, its attorneys can arm themselves in advance with figures that will forestall further fatuous claims that the public is not sustaining enormous material damages.

Judge Goldsborough, the department of justice, the government's administrators of the coal industry and everybody concerned in this tragedy thrust on the country by the arbitrary whim of one union leader are dealing with one of the most dangerous problems that can arise in government—an open threat to public welfare by a compact minority strategically situated to do great damage. The backseat drivers who have been second-guessing the government's decisions, the advocates of appeasement at any cost and the masterminds who know how to do the thing better—if they'd been asked—must take sides unequivocally now. The die has been cast.

Suffering and inconvenience have been increasing in geometric progression as existing coal supplies were exhausted. Another fortnight added to the strike would mean paralysis of everything that uses coal. There would be almost no electric power, no heat in public buildings, no heat in thousands of homes and a virtual cessation of railroad transportation. Mr. Lewis and his miners have the unquestioned power to do this. For two weeks they have been doing it.

They have used their power in a manner that gives the public no choice but to protect itself by whatever means are available in government. They have challenged not only the means of the nation's economic existence but the sovereignty of the people—their right to act in their own defense. They have inflicted on the United States hardships greater than those which its citizens were asked to bear in their defense during war.

Government, for better or worse, now has challenged them at the one point where their union is vulnerable—in its treasury. Mr. Lewis has been contemptuous of public convenience, administrative and legislative government, and the courts. But he may not be contemptuous of the ultimate source of his own power, the funds which he has been able to collect by the check-off of coal miners' wages.

Maginot Line Abandoned

THE United States is going to abandon the remnants of its Maginot Line—the coastal artillery which is the traditional defense against invasion. The vast line of guns and forts will be placed on a "caretaker" status.

This marks formal abandonment by this country of a military fallacy which has fooled some of the greatest nations. The Chinese built a wall. France built underground fortifications, the Maginot Line. Germany built its "Westwall.", Japan circled its besieged islands with explosives and patriots ready to sacrifice their lives to repel invasion. The United States nursed the illusion of a security and isolation for years behind a coastal defense which was pitifully inadequate even as a theory when it was needed in the months after Pearl Harbor and wholly impractical for defense against modern weapons of attack, as the United States itself proved during World War II at the expense of our enemies.

As such things disappear, it can be said that men have nothing to lose but the illusion of safety that such defenses encouraged.

News Behind the News

O'Mahoney Plan Unlikely To Cure Strikes.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—A particular reason why the pro-labor New Deal Senator O'Mahoney went to the White House to urge an annual wage guarantee to cure the strike-made depression. Naturally you may wonder how this forgotten issue could cure a strike, let alone all of them. Behind the proposal however, is the fact that union strategy has curdled (note Lewis and others first).

The unions have led themselves into a situation where, if they win, they still lose. Their greatest weapon, the strike, has become uneconomic. They must have production to live, but they are forcing the country into a strike-made stalemate of production which hurts themselves more than anyone (the little strikes which have tied up the CIO workers in autos, the coal strike which has forced union men out of work in steel and autos, the Hollywood strikes keeping fellow unions out of work etc.) They are costing each other heavily by overworking their good thing. They have played their good thing to where it is no longer good.

Question for Lewis

The question for Lewis, for instance, is how long a miner will have to work to gain back what he lost in two strikes in six months—without fines. Lewis has mentioned no just grievance to arouse public support. The contract he broke with government is one he forced on a sympathetic government. He dictated it himself. It is the most favorable contract a miner ever had—or probably ever will get. To get some minor bit more, Lewis has forced out of work union men in major industries causing losses to them they may never make up—but far more important, he has challenged the authority of a federal government itself and its courts, to get a pittance if he wins.

Even so, imagine he wins, and makes government subservient to union leadership or causes a breakdown of court authority. Bi-partisan control of government by Republicans and Democrats would never let the unions run the economy of a country. The unions could not do it if they took over government. In the first place they just lost an election. Their political action groups proved inconsequential and evaporated. They are a minority and they have lost the political power with which to frighten politicians. But even philosophically they could not win by control, because you cannot run a country by letting unions have everything they desire, by upping wages twice in a year, or sometimes oy upping them at all. A necessarily selfish group of union leaders can no more run a country economically than a group of bankers. You cannot have even an approach to a sound country or sound economics until the government is run by the people to promote an even sense of justice—in the name of common popular justice.

Union Dilemma

The unions are therefore in a fix. The mistake their leaders made was to let Lewis take the leadership in a case against government itself, under wholly unfavorable circumstances. (a coal strike in midwinter, a pay raise six months ago, etc.) and to bring forward their self-destructive strike weapon at a time when they needed production to live and stave off a depression, to promote stability of the economy to protect their former wage increases and an era of cooperation to make their gains firm.

If the union leaders had been wise, for instance, they would have taken hold of legislative union reforms and cooperated with congress in legislation to correct their worst defects. Then they would have remained somewhat influential in the situation, might have dulled the legislation for their own advantage, helped chase out their own racketeers and Communists—in short, could have ridden with the popular clamor for their own reform. They could have sailed with the wind.

Instead union leaders have foolishly chosen to resist any reform or correction whatsoever by even moving to destroy the authority of government and courts. They completely ignored and refuted the presence of any popular opposition, or opposition in their own ranks from servile union men who have no say, or right to work, and decided to sail straight against the popular wind demanding more wage increases. Indeed the union philosophy propounded by AFL's Green last Tuesday and others is that the public and its popular government cannot put any restriction upon unions in any way, but must remain helpless forever. Government, courts and all people must give in to unions in all respects—or the unions will fight them, all of them. No one can have the right to protect himself against a union—not governments, courts or people but the unions must have an uncontrollable right to cause national misery, suffering and death its improvident leaders may choose for government, courts and innocent people. This is hardly a philosophy designed to succeed.

Policy Not Popular

The country is not likely to go along with such an unwise policy, nor is government, or the courts.

That the unions are killing themselves as well as the country by lack of national wisdom in leadership can be plainly demonstrated. If they undermine authority in this government, unquestionably they will get a dictatorship in one form or another. Both the Nazi and Communist dictatorships have relegated unions to the position of useless, meaningless, brotherhoods without any power whatsoever. The last election made it plain no union dictatorship could be imposed in this country. The Army and bipartisanship are likely to get our leadership. So by undermining the economy and this form of government, they are undermining the best deal they ever had—or even can get—and are defeating themselves politically and economically. Their power now is only the privilege to destroy they cannot win in its chosen way.

These are the unspoken factors behind the O'Mahoney proposal. The union leadership must extricate itself from a suicidal dilemma by adopting some extraneous excuse for settling down to work, and getting out of the calamitous predicament into which its leadership has plunged it and the country short-sightedly.

For Cleaner Chimneys
And Shorter Stockings

Detroit's Santa Claus Union (local 1652) is demanding more money and better working conditions.

What do they want? Time and a half for overtime and a holiday on Christmas Eve? The next thing you know they'll be striking for chimney-to-chimney pay.

"All is not sweetness and light for Santa Claus," explains the union president. "Their putty noses get heavy, their makeup hot. Beards get in their way. And sometimes, even the little darlings we work with can be tiresome.

Besides, the work is highly seasonal.

The current rate of pay is only a dollar an hour. Who do those department stores think he is, Santa Claus?"

The possibility of semi-pros being used as strike-breakers seems unlikely. In a highly organized town like Detroit, retailers dare not invite a labor boycott against establishments whose Santas don't carry a union label.

Congress Made It Clear

PROCEEDINGS in Congress when the Norris - LaGuardia Act was passed in 1932 indicate that legislators did not intend to apply it to government. This is the government's position in its case against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers Counsel for United Mine Workers challenges the position.

In Senate debate, the late George W. Norris described the effect of injunctions as follows: "The effect of an injunction is to make something illegal which is not illegal under the law of the land. It makes something a crime which is not a crime under public law. (Yet) the punishment for such a crime is just the same as the punishment for the violation of any criminal statute."

In the coal strike however, the effect of an injunction was only to try to restrain Lewis and his union from violating the Smith-Connally Act, which says it is a crime under public law to instigate a work stoppage while coal mines were under government operation.

In House debate, Fiorello LaGuardia said a proposed amendment to except the government from the anti-injunction provisions of his proposed law was unnecessary. "I do not see how in any possible way the United States can be brought in under the provisions," he declared. "The present bill refers only to disputes between employes and employer . . . This is limited to matters between employers and employes. The public is fully protected by penal and other statutes not contemplated to be repealed by this bill."

One of the U. S representatives who voted for the bill in the understanding it would not forbid the government to use injunctions to protect the public was Thomas Alan Goldsborough of Maryland's 1st district—the same Judge Goldsborough who granted the injunction which failed to restrain John L. Lewis from paralyzing coal production.

It is topsy-turvy news that comes form Tahiti, where there is said to be a shortage of clothing, and where the natives are complaining that unless something is done about it soon they will be driven back to grass skirts.

Of course, everyone knows that clothing is scanty in Tahiti, but we didn't know they considered it a shortage. We thought they considered it a status quo. And as for driving Tahitians to grass skirts!

Well, it sounds like driving a Scotsman to kilts, a Malay to sarongs, a Park avenue pretty to Schiaparelli creations, or a Panamanian to Panama hats. Don't they wear them all the time, or are the motion pictures failing as an educational force?

Atomic Issue Must Be Settled

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—Behind the disarmament debate lumbering along in the United Nations general assembly, there is only one really important fact. The time is drawing relentlessly closer and closer when the great issue of our times—the issue of international control of atomic energy—will be clearly and finally drawn. None of the informed experts doubt that the real motive of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's talk of general disarmament is to confuse this underlying issue. And it is to prevent this confusion that Secretary of State James F. Byrnes has been urging the Atomic Energy Commission to render its report with all speed—"today if possible, and if not today, tomorrow."

A full meeting of the atomic energy commission is about to be held. Bernard M. Baruch on behalf of the United States, Andrei Gromyko or perhaps even Molotov on behalf of the Soviet Union, and other commission members will present their recommendations based on ten months' study. There will follow the last phase, in which the commission will draft its formal report to the United Nations security council. The great issue will then at last be clearly drawn, for the simple reason that the drafting of the report will almost certainly force the Soviets to state their views on the underlying issues of inspection and control.

Two Schools of Thought

There are two schools of thought among the highest authorities as to what the Soviets may do. One school, in the light of such recent developments as Andrei Vishinsky's statement on the inspection and control question, holds that the Soviets will follow what may be called their Trieste strategy. In other words, they will indorse inspection and control in principle, as they finally indorsed the internationalization of Trieste, and then fight tooth and claw to prevent true inspection and control provisions from being written into any treaty concerning atomic energy. This would at least buy time for them.

On the other hand, the United States delegation is determined that there shall be no fudging of the issue. With the exception of the Soviets and puppet Poles, the representatives of all other nations on the commission have been convinced by the facts that the U. S. position is unimpeachable. The Soviets will have to agree to something like the Acheson-Lilienthal-Oppenheimer and Baruch reports if they want to avoid a minority stand. Consequently a second and perhaps larger school of forecasters predicts a ten to two commission vote, with Soviets and Poles in the minority. No one, it must be added believes that the Soviets will genuinely accept inspection and control in practice as well as theory.

Informed sources anticipate that the U. S. delegation will emphasize three major recommendations at the forthcoming meeting.

First, the establishment of an international atomic development authority will be proposed, to mine all uranium and thorium ore, control all plants processing the ore into fissionable material, and supervise the subsequent use of fissionable material for any purpose whatever.

The A. D. A. would be a subsidiary of the United Nations. But the U. S. delegation emphatically does not contemplate permitting any member of the A. D. A.'s board of directors to exercise a national veto over its transactions.

Second, an extensive inspection system will be demanded. As originally indicated in the Acheson-Lilienthal - Oppenheimer report, the basis of this inspection system will be recognition of the right of the atomic development authority to conduct geological surveys at any time, anywhere on the earth's surface to prevent illegal mining of the uranium and thorium ores. Since this safeguard is comprehensive, inspection of industrial and other installations will be limited.

Third, suspension of the security council veto in cases of proven violation of an international convention for control of atomic energy will also be recommended. The veto will not be impaired in any other way. And the question of how action is to be taken will be left open.

The question remains. What comes next? If the Soviet delegates adopt a Trieste-type strategy more time will be needed to make plain that their endorsement of inspection and control in principle does not imply willingness to accept inspection and control in practice. If there is a straight ten to two split, "we shall know where we stand," in the words of David E. Lilienthal. There will follow a determined effort to alter the Soviet position, by offering concessions on all points not considered essential and by appealing direct to Generalissimo Stalin.

And if these expedients do not serve, the ultimate result will probably be the establishment of an Atomic Development Authority not including the Soviet Union or its satellites.

They Cut Her Down

By TRUMAN TWILL

They have cut down Mildred Burke, but things won't be the same. In the 12 months Mildred had been hanging up behind her she won our heart. Wherever she is, whatever she may be doing, if she reads this we want her to know we cared—a lot.

Mildred Burke was the lady on the calendar that hung back of this writer's chair through 1946. She was, it said below three poses, all in four colors, the world champion lady wrestler. She could be booked out of Los Angeles, Calif. But we never wrote.

In her three poses, Mildred Burke had to some trouble to make it plain she was a lady to be toyed with. In two of the poses she was wearing her arm-breaking costume, a one-piece bathing suit full of Mildred and tourched around the middle by the world champion with a hunk of brass big enough to make a world champion gentleman wrestler count 10 and decide to default.

In the third pose, Mildred Burke was amiable in a kind of "Hello there" pose even without the brass and wearing pumps instead of ring shoes she bulged in too many of the wrong places. There wasn't an ounce of fat on Mildred anywhere, understand; it was all muscle, fine-looking muscle. Mildred Burke was a fine-looking gal, but there was so much more her! My!

Visitors used to come in and do a double take as they noticed Mildred Burke. You could see the incredulity in their eyes . . . Mildred Burke, world champion lady wrestler, hanging up in this specimen, probably a case of opposites attracting quaint, and what's this all about anyway.

Then there would be a blank in the conversation while they read the name of Mildred's manager, his address and so on. They would look then, which was our cue to turn around and give Mildred another long, searching look as we'd discuss lady wrestlers. It's a big subject.

This went on for a year. Mildred Burke, like a member of the family, except younger and better-looking. She was there every morning, always worth one more look, a dependable all-weather charmer. But today they cut her down.

"Got a new calendar for you," said the boss curtly. "Especially for you. The boss is sure to put this up in place of that lady Mr. Twill looks at all the time."

Down came Mildred Burke. Up went a new representation of the Village Smithy with Smitty himself beating out a plowshare and sweating like a horse. If the boss thinks he is going to make things better, he's dreaming. Things were as good as they'll ever be with the old Mildred Burke, Los Angeles 37, Calif. She should have written to get a price on three out of three. But we never did.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Confusing Symptoms

The diaphragm is the large, sheath-like muscle which separates the abdominal and chest cavities. In addition, it serves as our most important aid to breathing Naturally, when so important a structure becomes inflamed, symptoms are likely to be severe. The condition is the more harrowing because it may be mistaken for a variety of other things—pleurisy or inflammation of the lining of the chest cavity, pneumonia, appendicitis or gallbladder disease, thus leading to improper treatment or even to operation, which will be futile and perhaps dangerous

The symptoms caused by inflammation of the diaphragm include pain on the affected side when the patient breathes in There are some lessening of the movment of the lower part of the chest, jerky spasms of the rib edge when the patient breathes in, and pain in the shoulder. In some cases there is also some stiffness and pain in the right upper part of the abdomen. When the patient is examined by X-ray it shows that the diaphragm on one side is raised and is either partly or completely immovable

According to Dr. Minas Joannides of Chicago, inflammation of the diaphragm may follow a cold or a severe chill It starts suddenly with a great deal of pain, fever and rapid pulse The severity of the symptoms varies to a great extent. If there is some lung inflammation present there may be some fluid in the lung There is danger that the infection may spread into the liver tissue causing an abscess The less severe attacks clear up within a few days but may recur with changes in temperatures and especially when the air is humid.

As the condition begins to clear up, the movement of the diaphragm is resumed The damaged muscle fibers in the diaphragm are replaced by scar tissue

After complete healing it is often found that the affected part of the diaphragm has become flattened instead of being arched

As a general rule, inflammation of the diaphragm is not a difficult one to diagnose if careful X-ray examinations are made Insofar as treatment is concerned all efforts should be made to overcome the infection by rest in bed and the use of the sulfonamide drugs and penicillin if they are indicated. Preparations may also be administered to relieve the pain

Pains in the chest may be produced by many disorders and in every instance a careful study by the physician is important.

FARM PRICES SEEN FALLING 5 PER CENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — Farm prices during the next three months may average five to 10 per cent below the record high level of mid-October the agriculture department said today.

Reporting on the demand outlook for farm products, the department said the trend in the general price level continued upward but the strength was principally in prices of non-agricultural products The department stated, however, that a prolonged coal strike would retard economic activity.

Despite recent weakening aspects of the farm price level, farm receipts from marketings during the first 11 months of this year were reported at $20,700,000,000 or 10 per cent above those of the same period in 1945.

Receipts from livestock and livestock products were about 5 per cent greater than last year, and crop receipts were about 16 per cent higher.

DRASTIC FUEL MEASURES SET

New Emergency Regulations Effective Monday Barring Coal Settlement.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6— The [illegible] production administration made ready to clamp a new series of drastic fuel conservation restrictions on the nation Monday [illegible] soft coal strike settlement [illegible] reached beforehand.

Edward Falck, chief of CPA's [illegible] of emergency controls, said the new order will:

1. Extend dimout restrictions to [illegible] utilities in the country which [illegible] electricity from soft coal. [illegible], Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi will be affected most.

2. Require that the more [illegible] "second phase" of the [illegible] restrictions, already announced for 21 north and eastern [illegible] and the District of Columbia, be put into operation when [illegible] stocks of utilities have dropped to a 20 instead of a 15-day supply.

3. Require utilities with more [illegible] specified amount of coal— [illegible] a 60-day supply — to [illegible] the remainder with other [illegible].

[illegible] said the new orders, [illegible] issued, will become operative as soon as the groups affected can be notified."

[illegible] may include the freezing of industrial and commercial coke [illegible].

The coke, which heretofore has [illegible] under federal restrictions, would be diverted to manufacturers of artificial gas whose [illegible] of gas to non-essential [illegible] already have been ordered [illegible] when the coal stocks [illegible] a three-week supply.

Another order under consideration would freeze coal supplies [illegible] industries forced to close by the strike, and supplies of other [illegible], including railroads, in excess of a specified amount.

There were also these other developments:

1. The solid fuels administration summoned coal conservators from all states to an emergency meeting Dec. 11, in Washington.

2. The same agency proposed that no coal be burned in places of amusement, schools or other buildings public or private, where this would not endanger health.

3. A general rail freight and express embargo creating widespread unemployment went into effect last midnight. The Association of American Railroads estimated that 150,000 railroad men [illegible] would be idle when the embargo hits full stride.

4. A postal order severely curtailing the size and weight of parcel post packages became effective at the same time, with a [illegible] impact on holiday spending and mailing.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY ATTENDED BY 500

"Footloose" To Be Presented Again Tonight.

Approximately 500 persons attended the first presentation of the Harding High school junior class play, "Footloose," last night in the Central Junior High school auditorium. Music preceding the play and between acts was given by the Harding High school orchestra under the direction of Homer Huffman.

The play, a comedy in three acts, is under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Walker, Harding High speech instructor. It will be given again tonight beginning at 8:15 p. m.

The story, cleverly enacted by the school cast, deals with the activities of the Early family. The children, who have always been tied to their mother's apron strings, finally rebel and want more freedom.

When Mr. and Mrs. Early take a vacation cruise to South America, one of the boys gets married against his mother's wishes and his younger brother becomes involved in a law suit, while the other children have their share of troubles to add to the confusion.

The play cast is as follows: Evelyn Winslow as Mary Early; John Wingett as Randolph Cunningham; Phyllis Badgley as Hope Early; Dorothy Chapman as Delphie the maid; Joe Reamsnyder as Bob Early; Jack Rubins as Dick Early; Ruth Postell as Mrs. Emily Early the mother; Ronnie Holloway as Richard Early the father; Joan Glassmeyer as Miriam Walker; Gerry Rowland as Jenny Malloy; Bill Tsumpes as Jack Milford; George Pluchel as Buzz Daily; Margaret Hamilton as Mrs. Forester, a young attorney, and Harold Patterson as Sanford Welles.

TRUMAN APPOINTS CIVIL RIGHTS GROUP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—President Truman, concerned over mob action and intolerance, has asked a committee of 15 to recommend ways of strengthening laws which guarantee civil rights.

On some recent occasions, the President said in naming the group, "the local enforcement of law and order has broken down and individuals—sometimes ex-servicemen, even women—have been killed, maimed or intimidated."

The President said it was the government's duty to act when lesser authorities fail to protect constitutional rights and "we must provide the department of justice with the tools to do the job."

His statement last night came at a time when a senate committee is hearing charges that Negroes were prevented from voting in this year's Mississippi Democratic primary and the justice department is investigating recent lynchings in the south.

Mr. Truman appointed Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric company, as chairman of the civil rights committee.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of Mr. Truman's White House predecessor, is one of the members. Now a New York lawyer, Roosevelt is housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee.

Eugene Jiles, 16, of Pedro, O. is in City hospital today with fractures of both legs after he was struck by an automobile while pushing a stalled truck on Route 23 just south of Waldo yesterday at 4:30 p. m.

Both Floyd E. Rogers and Beckel suffered cuts on the face. The rear of the truck was damaged.

Three minor accidents were reported to police Thursday. Ross Myers, 33, of Bluffton, Ind., reported that the Erie and N.Y.C. viaduct on Leader street was too low for his semi-trailer truck to pass under and he had damaged the top of the truck but not the viaduct when he tried to go under at 7:20 p. m.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Stop Worrying

I guess folks in our town do about as much worrying as in yours—over housing and prices, and crops, and jobs—and the little domestic problems that are always coming up.

Dad Hoskins, who's lived to the happy age of eighty, has a simple formula for stopping worry. About every problem, he asks himself: Is there anything I can do about it? If there is, he never postpones making a decision, or taking necessary action.

If there isn't anything he can do about it, he sets aside a "worrying hour" after dinner, and gets his worrying over in one concentrated period. When that's over, he relaxes over a friendly glass of beer with Ma Hoskins—and they talk about pleasant things together, until bed-time.

From where I sit, that's as workable a formula as you could find ... right down to the mellow glass of beer that seems to wink away your worries.

4 MEN HELD AFTER TAXI OFFICE FIGHT

Accused of Attacking and Injuring Two Drivers.

Four men, arrested about 3 a. m. today after a fracas at the Yellow Cab office at 178 East Center street, were being held today on $200 bond each after they pleaded not guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and intoxication. Hearing was set for tomorrow morning.

The men, none of whom are employes of Yellow Cab, were said to have engaged in a fight with cabdrivers. They are Albert J. Hogue, 22, of 136 East Mark street, George R. Bell, 25, of the Ideal Hotel, William O. Redd, 24, of 120 South High street; and Charles H. Thacker, 21, of 576 Herman street.

Two taxi drivers injured in the fight are Alfred Easterday of North Greenwood street and James Simpkins of Clinton street, both about 25. Easterday was treated and released at City hospital for abrasions of the face.

A. J. Raub, proprietor of the Yellow Cab Co., said today the men engaged Easterday's cab at the office to go to the west end. When they insisted on riding with the doors open, Easterday refused to drive them, Raub said. They then attacked him and Simpkins, and entered the office to prevent the attendant from calling police, Raub reported.

Police later arrested the men in the downtown area.

Marion plant for their continued operation, officials said.

Other plants were reported to be taking similar measures to insure continued operation, but in many the embargo has cut off all means of getting materials to and from their plants.

Rail Yards Swamped

Erie railroad officials announced today the local rail yards were swamped with materials from local industries which had come in before the embargo went into effect. They estimated a 25 per cent increase in business and a tie-up which will take the remainder of the week to clear out. They predicted that beginning next week rail traffic would drop off approximately 50 per cent due to the embargo, with corresponding reductions in crews.

A sudden boom also resulted in express shipments, rushed into the Marion Railway Express office before the embargo deadline, E. J. Sailer, Railway Express agent reported. Express shipments now are limited to emergency supplies. Mr. Sailer has estimated the embargo will reduce express shipments here by 450 a day.

Homer Cole, Marion postmaster, said new postal regulations, limiting the size and weight of parcel post, were being observed here today. The regulations, which went into effect at midnight, limit the weight of parcel post to five pounds in packages measuring not more than 18 inches in length and 60 inches in length and girth combined. There was some increase in postal business before the deadline last night, Mr. Cole said, but the increase was not unusual for this season when Christmas packages always begin to jam the mails.

C. T. RIEMAR RITES

Funeral services for Charles T. Riemar, formerly of Marion, will be conducted Saturday at 1 p. m. in the Boyd and Uncapher funeral home on West Columbia street. Mr. Riemar died in the home of a daughter in Ashley Thursday. Survivors are his widow, the daughter, Mrs. Franklin Greenfield, four sons, Newman of Marion, Paul of Cincinnati, Elmer of Columbus and Charles who lives in the west, two granddaughters, Mrs. June Bumgarner and Mrs. Gail Sout, both of Marion, and three sisters, Mrs. Dora Van Divender and Mrs. Bena Erdensberger, both of Mansfield, and Mrs. Anna Burns of Cleveland.

"The organized labor movement will not tolerate this attempt to turn back the clock of progress in labor relations."

No Sign of Truman Surrender

If this verbal assault was making any impression on President Truman and those helping him map strategy, there was no sign of it anywhere.

On the contrary, a new series of fuel-saving restrictions was in preparation as though the administration was digging in for a long-seige, if need be.

Lewis risked jail and further fines by continuing to ignore the court's temporary injunction requiring a halt in the strike.

Can Bring New Action

Technically, the government could move at any time to bring a new contempt action. And officials have made known that preparations are going forward for possible prosecution under the Smith-Connally act which makes it a crime to encourage or incite a strike in a government-held plant.

But there was every indication that the government would make no fresh major move until after President Truman's Sunday night nationwide radio broadcast—and the reaction to it.

That pointed to Monday as the next critical day with court action, meantime, limited to such actions as the UMW putting up bond and carrying out the technical end of appealing from Goldsborough's rulings.

Green Proposes Conference

Green, in his statement yesterday, proposed that coal operators and Lewis be brought together in an effort to agree on a contract that would put the miners back at work.

His move was widely interpreted as a possible "peace feeler" that must have had the approval of Lewis, an AFL vice president. But weighing against that interpretation was the fact that Green said nothing about the miners going back to work while the negotiations were underway.

The National Coal association, meeting in New York, said the issue in the government-Lewis controversy is "the sovereignty of the people," and the soft coal operators can do nothing "in the present situation, to which they are not a party."

Truman To Air Appeal

President Truman will broadcast at 9.30 p. m. Sunday, over all major networks. There was some conjecture he might outline government plans to bring UMW and management together—if there are any. Primarily, however, he was expected to appeal to miners to go back to work despite the defiant resistance of Lewis.

With the strike in its 16th day, slow fuel starvation pinched harder on the nation's furnaces and factories, and set in motion new government moves to extend the 21-state dimout, tighten power rationing, and force well-supplied utilities to share their coal with others.

The moves are all planned for next Monday by the civilian production administration, unless some unforeseen break ends the coal tie-up. Also, CPA studied the freezing of all coke supplies and delivering them to the manufacturers of artificial gas.

A proposal to shut down night clubs, theaters, schools and libraries went out from the solid fuels administration to governors of 36 states. The agency also summoned state coal conservation chiefs to an emergency meeting here next Wednesday.

Today brought into effect a parcel post embargo on packages of more than five pounds, as well as a ban on all freight except a handful of essential items.

Ohioan To Support Family of Man He Killed in Accident

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 6—A 24-year-old mill worker, who chose to support the family of a man he killed in an automobile accident rather than go to prison, assumed his obligation today.

Indicted for second degree manslaughter in the death of Frank Giampetro last April 14, Earl Sandor was given the choice by Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden Jr. of serving an indefinite prison sentence or supporting Giampetro's wife and two children.

The indictment charged he was under the influence of alcohol at the time his car collided with a borrowed vehicle operated by Giampetro.

Sandor, who pleaded guilty, will pay under the agreement:

1. Thirty dollars a month for each of Mrs. Giampetro's two children, nine and three-years-old, until they are 18.

2. To Mrs. Giampetro more than $1,000 for her husband's medical and funeral expenses. He was allowed five years for this.

3. Ten dollars a month to the owner of the car Giampetro was driving at the time of the accident, until damages are satisfied.

4. Court costs.

The judge said he offered the probation agreement to Sandor, who is unmarried, because of the serious financial condition of the Giampetro family.

Coal Strike Hits Bucyrus Rail and Factory Workers

By The Associated Press

BUCYRUS, Dec. 6—The miners' strike reached deep into Bucyrus today as the New York Central railroad prepared to lay off 100 workers between now and Monday and the W. A. Riddell Corp. announced a cut of 50 per cent in the working staff, effective Monday. Mail and shipping was also hard hit today as the Pennsylvania railroad cut its number of passenger trains stopping in Bucyrus from eight to two.

Other Bucyrus industries reported work on a day-to-day basis with continuance depending upon supply of vital parts, with motor freight now the only means of supply.

COAL SITUATION SURVEYED BY BOARD

Galion Schools Can Operate Until Holidays.

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 6 — The Galion board of education pledged cooperation with city officials in meeting the fuel situation in Galion, at a meeting of the board Thursday at Senior High school auditorium.

With favorable weather, the schools have enough coal for heating to run until Dec. 20 when the Christmas vacation period starts, M. A. Povenmire, superintendent of schools, said today.

The board also spent some time discussing the legislative program, and the Ohio Education association proposal for 1947 changes in the Ohio School foundation law. A meeting will be held in Bucyrus, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for a group of district school officials to discuss the program, the board learned.

The resignation of Ralph Pollock, effective Jan. 1, was received. He is head custodian at the Junior High school, and he has accepted a position at the North Electric Co. in Galion.

Foreign Ministers See End of Treaty Writing

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—After more than a year of conferences sharpened by many bitter disputes between Russia and the western powers, the council of foreign ministers today counted the European satellite peace treaties virtually completed due mainly to sweeping last-minute concessions by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Today in a session scheduled for 4 p. m. the Big Four was due to clean up a number of relatively minor unsettled points and to act on a report from their naval committee presumably concerning the distribution of the Italian fleet among Italy and the victorious Allied powers.

According to decisions reached at Paris, the Italians were supposed to retain two battleships and a number of other naval craft. The remainder of the fleet, including three battleships and five cruisers, was to be apportioned among the Allies.

U. S. Makes Direct Bid For Russian Support

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 6—The United States made a direct appeal to Russia last night for support of the American plan to control the atomic bomb and urged that the United Nations atomic energy commission approve the plan before the end of the year.

Bernard M. Baruch, taking a speedy advantage of a change in the Soviet attitude as set forth earlier this week by Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, looked straight at Soviet Delegate Andre Gromyko in last night's commission session and declared:

"We seek especially the participation of the Soviet Union."

JACOBS OFF CRITICAL LIST

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Michael S. (Mike) Jacobs, the boxing promoter, was reported off the critical list at St. Clare's hospital today for the first time since he was stricken Tuesday with a cerebral hemorrhage. Physicians said Jacobs, 66, was "doing very nicely."

Employment Up in Marion Area

...in 38 selected re-...ustries in the Marion ...owing a slow upward ...ding to reports in the ...ce of the bureau of un-...compensation — Ohio ...yment service.

...n employment office ...yment in these in-...vember totaled ap-...8,250 workers, and it ...that 396 workers, ...female workers will ...in the next one to ...unless the coal short-...ues.

...yment report shows the number of job seekers in the Marion area is sufficient to meet the demand. Employment officials pointed out, however, that even though there is a sufficient supply of workers, there still are some jobs unfilled because of the lack of qualified workers for a specific skill. The number of job seekers on Nov. 1 was practically the same as on Oct. 1. However, the number of male job seekers decreased and the number of female job seekekrs increased.

Veteran applicants dropped 24 per cent from October to November, there being 596 veterans seeking employment on Oct 1 and 452 on Nov. 1. On Oct. 1, 75 per cent of the male job seekers were men and on Nov. 1, 67 per cent of the male applicants were veterans. On Oct. 1 there were 995 applicants registered for employment, and on Nov. 1 there were 959.

Female job seekers increased 38 per cent from October to November, with 205 females registered for employment in Oct. 1 and 283 on Nov. 1.

More Women Workers

It is believed the increase in female job seekers was due to the entrance of females into the labor market as a result of the increase in demand for female workers locally, a newly acquired Marion industry and the enlargement of several local establishments serving as a source for the employment of female workers. The drop in male applicants, primarily veterans, was believed due to the return of students to college.

A three-fourths drop from the February peak of 1,720 persons claiming unemployment benefits weekly through the Marion area was realized by October. Slightly fewer than one-half the claimants are women.

Of the jobs filled by the Marion office during the last two months one-third went to women, and two-fifths went to veterans. Two thirds of the jobs were in manufacturing, mostly semi-skilled and unskilled. Women filled two-fifths of these manufacturing jobs.

NAVARRE MAN BUYS BABER BAKERY HERE

C. H. Miller New Proprietor of Marion Concern.

Mrs Florence Baber, proprietor of the Baber Baking Co. of 136 South Prospect street, has sold the bakery to C H Miller of Navarre, O. Mr Miller announced today.

Mr Miller took over management of the baking company this week and said he would move his family to Marion as soon as a home could be found. He has been associated with a baking firm in Navarre for the last 17 years.

The change in management will have no effect on the operation of the bakery, Mr. Miller said, and the usual service will be offered.

New Striking Motor Is Ordered for Clock

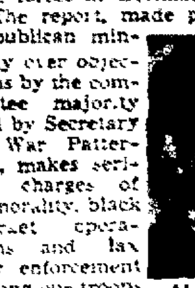
County commissioners said today they had ordered a new motor for the striking mechanism of the court house clock and hope to have the clock striking again soon.

The striking mechanism became defective last summer, at which time it was repaired by a Springfield firm, only to go out of order again after a few days operation.

Boyle Reviews Conduct of Occupation Forces

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Counsel George M. Meader's once-secret report to the senate war investigating committee has reopened the long-standing controversy over the conduct of American occupation forces in Germany.



Hal Boyle

The report, made public by a Republican minority over objections by the committee majority and by Secretary of War Patterson, makes serious charges of immorality, black market operations and lax law enforcement among our troops in Germany.

It airs in startling summary many criticisms which have been leveled before against the American military government.

Without drawing any conclusions on the issues at hand I should like to report on facts I learned and opinions of the men I talked to in Germany last summer. They range from privates to generals.

Let's first consider our troops and their conduct.

When war ended more than 18 months ago, we had hundreds of thousands of veteran combat soldiers. They had fought and won a rugged war. They wanted to go home—and most did.

Set Pattern for Replacements

But during the transition from war to occupation many men set a pattern for those who were to replace them. This group established black markets, formed liaisons with German girls, conducted themselves generally like carpetbaggers. They didn't constitute the whole army, but it was inevitable that a big army, just through a nerve-tearing war, would have them in it.

Younger, less thoroughly trained groups who replaced them—not as a whole, but still in good proportion—took up where their predecessors had left off.

Now the army, struggling to reorganize itself and at the same time govern a chaotic and defeated nation, gradually has choked down the black market by introducing currency books which strictly limit the amount soldiers can send home.

Cigarets Traded on Market

The only black market of any size now that I knew about within the army itself last summer was in the trading by individual soldiers of their cigarets and extra or stolen army food to German civilians. This enables the enlisted man to get cheap liquor and speeds his courtships. It enables the officer to buy furniture and home decorations at German "distress" sales.

"The only way to stop this black market," many officers and men have told me, "is to make cigarets and food so plentiful in Germany they will have no extra value."

That is not an immediate prospect. A curb that has been suggested however, would be to limit the mailing of cigarets or food to American army men and American civilians in Germany who use them chiefly for re-sale.

Youth of Replacements

The youth and inexperience of army replacements has been of grave concern to army commanders. Many lack the stability to keep from going astray.

"I believe that if the average soldier was in an older age bracket we would be able to do more than we are now doing," said Major General Frank A Keating, chief of the Berlin garrison.

Soldiers agree that many among them are promiscuous with German girls. It should be pointed out, on the other hand that in a high percentage of case the girl is the aggressor. An American soldier is a real catch now in impoverished Germany even on a temporary basis. And Hitler taught the fraeuleins not to hold their virtue very high.

Army leaders are fighting the venereal disease rate by [illegible] troops in barracks, allowing only approved German girls at social functions and placing German cafes "out of bounds." The weapon they want and lack is the old power to [illegible] the soldier who [illegible] disease via his guaranteed and paycheck deductions.

As to immorality among higher officers, you hear gossip but see little evidence. And as one junior officer observed:

"Their wives are here now and the big boys have to stay in line—whether they like to or not."

Reports Promotion Of Ex-Marionite

A sketch of the career of Charles H. Artman, former Marion and Galion Erie railroad employe, is contained in the December issue of the Erie railroad magazine.

Mr. Artman was appointed district accountant for the Erie with headquarters at Hornell, N. Y., on Nov. 1. He had been assistant district accountant since 1927. He began work in Marion in 1913 and was employed here as clerk, timekeeper, chief clerk, storekeeper, master mechanic division accountant and assistant district accountant.

He came here from Galion where he had started with the Erie as yard clerk. He is a native of Galion, attended school there and the Bliss Business College in Columbus.

Reynolds, publicity chairman of the Marion chapter announced today.

Non-members who are interested in diesel engines are invited to attend, Mr. Reynolds said. The meeting will be the last this year and will not be a dinner meeting. Business will be conducted by President Loy D. Rhoads and a new slate of officers for 1947 will be announced.

Epworth Mothers' Class Holds Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party and installation of officers of the Mothers class of Epworth Methodist church was held Monday night in the home of Mrs. F. L. Thomas on South Main street, with 6 o'clock dinner served. Mrs. Ray Williams was installed as president, Mrs. Charles Dengler, first vice president, Mrs. Earl Stansbury, second vice president, Mrs. C. A. [illegible], secretary, and Mrs. F. G. Stoffstall, vice secretary, Mrs. Walter Slob, treasurer, and Mrs. J. J. Keggan, assistant and Mrs. Thomas, teacher. The installation was in charge of Mrs. George Wilson. During a program Christmas carols were sung, and Mrs. Homer Waddell, a guest, gave a Persian interpretation of the birth of Christ. A gift exchange was held, and Miss Margaret Huffman led devotions centered around the life of George Washington Carver. Mrs. Frank Knapp was chairman for the program. The social committee was headed by Mrs. Marion Tatham. First meeting of the new year will be Jan. 6 in the home of Mrs. Frances Bryans on Last Center street.

Tropic plants often grow a foot or more in a day.

Trinity Baptist Class Elects New Officers

Election of officers for the new year was held when Alpha Tau Gamma class of Trinity Baptist church met Tuesday night with Miss Lois Layman of 257 West Pleasant street. Miss Betty Neff was chosen to serve as president; Mrs. Patty Ann Ruckman, vice president; Miss Donna Crabtree, secretary and treasurer, Miss Leona Smith, chaplain; Miss Rhea King assistant chaplain, and Miss Lois Layman, recording secretary.

The class constitution was read and a committee was appointed to be in charge of filling a Christmas basket for charity. Miss Layman and Miss Charlene Krebs were named on the committee. A special collection was taken for a Christmas offering.

During the social hour, a Christmas story was read by Miss Rhea King, followed by a quiz contest with honors going to Mrs. Edna Cochran. Miss King, the teacher, was presented an appreciation gift from the class. Honors in another contest went to Miss King. A Christmas exchange was held and rootie was played with prizes going to Mrs Cochran and Mrs. Ruckman. Mrs Cochran was a guest. The next meeting will be with Miss Krebs of 212 Wildwood court.

Adoption Sought For 2-Week-Old Son Of Jailed Mother

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 6 — A Galion couple is attempting to secure adoption papers for a two-weeks old boy whose 19-year-old mother is being held in the Crawford County jail for investigation.

The young mother who came to Galion from Kentucky Nov. 19, gave birth to the baby in Galion on Nov. 23, and was attended by a Galion physician. She attempted earlier this week to advertise her baby for adoption in the Galion Inquirer, but later wrote to several persons on the East side of town advising them that her child was available for adoption. Police traced her through her letters, and called in E. T. Talbott of Crestline, Crawford county probation officer, who is investigating the case.

The young woman was arrested Tuesday at a Harding Way East address at 6:10 p. m. after a number of persons had reported to police they had received letters from her. The letters were delivered by the young woman's 16-year-old sister.

Police were told by the baby's mother that she had come to Galion after her husband had been killed by her father in a shotgun fight, and that she had two other children, three years and 15 months old respectively. Her story is being investigated.

Surplus of Cage Talent Worries O.W.U.'s Coach

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Dec 6—Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bishops open a rugged 27-game basketball season Tuesday night at Edwards Gym [illegible] Coach Bob Strimer still puzzling over the selection of a varsity squad as well as a starting quintet.

It [illegible] a case of not having enough talent to go around—it's just the opposite. He started with 17 lettermen and has a crop of new freshmen to worry about. And he's trying to pick a squad of a dozen. Just wait until he picks his starters—he'll have an even tougher job on his hands.

The Bishops open with Wooster next Tuesday, have a game with Otterbein at Westerville on Saturday, Dec 14, then take a two-day trip into New York State for games with Syracuse University and Cortland State Teachers, on Dec 20 and 21.

COUNTY LOOP READY FOR HEAVY WEEKEND

All Teams Under Fire as Second League Week Starts.

County league play goes into [illegible] tonight [illegible] league [illegible] action. At [illegible] Waldo, Caledonia, Claridon, Martel and Green Camp are in first place with Morral, Prospect, Meeker, New Bloomington, Kirkpatrick, Pleasant and LaRue trailing. This will be the first time that LaRue and Pleasant have engaged in league play.

The only contest in which one participant is sure to get knocked out of first place is the Waldo-Green Camp engagement. Waldo last week upset Morral and Green Camp downed Kirkpatrick.

Claridon, to remain in first place, must down LaRue which also has a chance of being with the leaders after tonight. Both Claridon and LaRue have won from the first opponent. The game will be played at Claridon.

Pleasant [illegible] forfeited in four starts, gets its league play at New Bloomington where the hosts are looking for the first [illegible].

Kirkpatrick and Prospect were both downed [illegible] and the loser is assured of a place in the cellar. The game will be played on Prospect's floor.

Caledonia looks strong and will retain its position with the league leaders provided they down twice-beaten Meeker in a home game.

Martel at Morral will probably be a close one. Martel has a win over New Bloomington in league play while Morral dropped a hard fought match to Waldo. The seasons records of the two teams make them about even.

Jones and Mihalakis Win Armory Match

Mike Mihalakis and Rufus Jones team up last night to down Whitey Walberg and Renee LaBell in the tag team feature at the Armory.

Mihalakis and Jones took the first fall in 15 minutes. LaBell and Walberg took the second in 10 minutes. The third fall, which involved the referee's being knocked out and the victors provoking jeers from the crowd, was taken by Jones and Mihalakis in 10 minutes.

T-Formation Lags As Football Defense Forces Aerial Game

[illegible]RK, Dec 6—Balked [illegible] defenses that often [illegible] bottling up the [illegible] along the ground, [illegible] ball coaches had to [illegible] and more on pass- [illegible] their teams rolling [illegible] 1946 season.

[illegible] help of the new rule [illegible] forward passing [illegible] behind the line of scrim- [illegible] "jump" pass and the [illegible] enjoyed much popu- [illegible] according to the coaches [illegible] in The Associated [illegible] wide poll.

[illegible] increase in passing [illegible] was reported from [illegible] West and the only [illegible] did not stress the [illegible] was the Southwest, [illegible] noted for its "air circus" Texas, with Bobby Layne doing the tossing, was the exception.

Arkansas, for example, did an abrupt about-face under Coach John Barnhill changing from the razzle dazzle style to the conservative type of play. It was effective enough to earn a tie with Rice for the conference championship.

Linked to the increase in passing was a gradual shift away from the T. Many coaches turned to a single wing off the fundamental T and others went back to the double wing.

Coach Howie Odell of Yale said he noticed a return to the single wing in the east's Ivy league, Colgate, Cornell and Syracuse in upstate New York found the "jump" pass effective and leaned heavily on that phase of the game.

The Pacific coast probably was the hotbed of the razzle-dazzle school this season with UCLA, the western Rose Bowl representative, featuring laterals.

Perhaps the soundest explanation was the old one—that coaches adapted their offenses to suit the material at hand. If a school had an excellent passer naturally it set up a long sequence of plays catering to that strength. Similarly, those that had only mediocre tossers concentrated on the old powerhouse game.

COAL PEACE HOPES BRING STOCK RISE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 — Faint hopes for a coal truce, with nothing outstanding to substantiate them, gave the stock market a selective recovery tinge today after an early general stumble.

In the supported area were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Engineers Public Service, North American, Electric Power and Light, Columbia Gas, Chrysler, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, American Smelting, Air Reduction, Du Pont, Continental Can, J. C. Penney and Allied Stores.

Reynolds Metals weakened when directors took no action on a common dividend. Laggards included Standard Oil (NJ), Union Carbide, Goodrich, Chesapeake and Ohio and Dow Chemical.

Bonds and commodities steadied.

Better curb performers were American Light, Babcock and Wilcox, Hammermill Paper, Middle West Corp., American Book, Standard Power, Northern States Power "A."

Girl Freed in Drowning Of 8-Year-Old Cripple

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6—Blonde Frances Katherine Wanstreet, 17, was freed of a first degree murder charge in the drowning of an eight-year-old crippled boy whose body was found floating in the Blue River Nov. 4.

Spectators at the girl's preliminary hearing yesterday cheered when Justice of the Peace Samuel C. Hayden dismissed the charge.

Police Lt. Charles Welch testified Miss Wanstreet voluntarily signed a statement that she pushed Ross Key Jr. into the river. The defense, contending the girl was under duress, said "the state has not made a case and has violated the laws of Missouri with a confession that was involuntary."

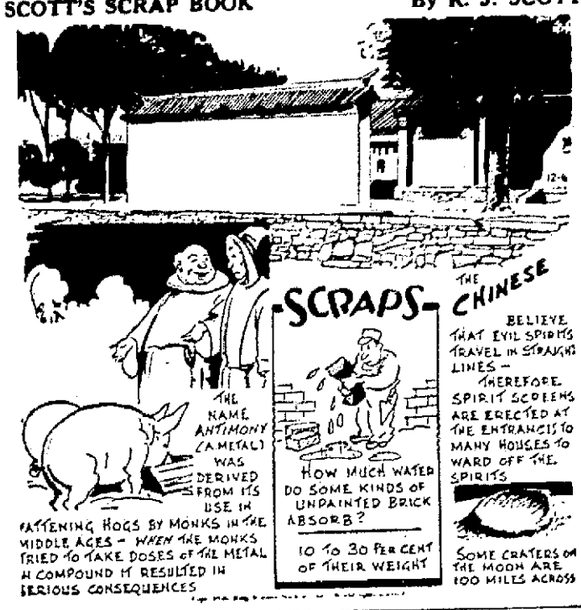
SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT



HOW TO TORTURE YOUR WIFE

By H. T. Webster

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I PRESSED my hands tightly against my lips to keep back the exultant words: "I knew it."

For with my father's words, "we'll find out what happened to the real 'Mr. X.,'" the fantastic conjecture which had been mine since Bertha Kent came to me with her cryptic message became a certainty.

"Do not say anything to either of us," Charlie Kent had said, "which will tell anything about the secret chamber."

The "Mr. X.," the F. B. I. man who had masqueraded as the Nazi agent when the four men had come to the farm house in search of Hugh Grantland and Lee Chow, had known all about the secret chamber and the long underground passages which led to it.

A Right Guess

These words, together with Bertha Kent's story of her husband's clothing being bloody and muddy and torn pointed to the hypothesis that the real "Mr. X." had been foully dealt with, and that someone was masquerading in his place.

There was another hypothesis, that "Mr. X." himself was playing a double role. But I had cast that supposition aside soon after I had heard Bertha Kent's story.

For Hugh Grantland had accepted "Mr. X." as genuine, and I knew that it would be very hard for anyone, no matter how skillful, to deceive Hugh Grantland.

My exultation turned to an almost irresistible desire for laughter. Katie had imitated faithfully my gesture of clapping my hands to my lips, and her eyes were fairly goggling with excitement.

Spencer's Voice

Then my father's voice came again.

"Tie him securely," he said. "Jim, what did the guards really tell you?"

"They said they had tied and gagged all three of the men who came with this one," Jim replied, and a snarl of rage from the pseudo "Mr. X." punctuated his words.

"Take it easy, fella," Hurry Underwood counseled. "You're going to have a long session, and you'll need to 'keep up your strength,' as the old housewives used to say."

Another snarl of rage and a torrent of objurgations answered him, and I heard the sound of a sharp slap.

Ladies Are Present

"We'll have no more langauge like that," Harry said. "There might be ladies present. You never can tell."

"Bless my soul!" my father said "I had forgotten. 'Mr. K.' will you please take away that screen?"

The F.B.I. man lifted the screen and the bullet-proof slabs behind it, and my father smiled at Katie and me.

"You have been most discreet," he said, "and obeyed orders implicitly. So now you may have front seats at this drama."

He placed chairs for both of us with his usual courtly grace, and spoke softly to me.

"Just keep your memory working," he said, and I nodded an assent.

Jim came back at the moment with Charlie Kent beside him, but a transformed man. The taxi driver was smiling, his figure was erect and his head reared itself proudly.

Didn't Dare Speak

"I didn't dare open my mouth before," he said. "He had a gun trained on me, and he said he'd use it on all of you, and that his pals would go and do unspeakable things to Bertha and our little girl, if I opened my mouth. But I was watching my chance to spill things, and I tried to tell you something with my eyes."

"I know you did, Charlie," my father said. "And we suspected the whole thing from the minute my daughter heard your message from your wife's lips. We have been setting the stage ever since. And the impostor walked into the trap very neatly. But now the important thing is where is the real 'Mr. X.'?"

The earliest permanent occupation of the Rio Grande Valley in New Mexico by prehistoric Pueblo Indians was probably not before 1000 A.D.
